Interview with Engr. M. B. Shehu FNSE, immediately after his inauguration as the 28th President of NSE

E-Newsletter: Sir, as the 28th President of the Nigerian Society of Engineers, what should engineers and engineering expect in the next two years of your leadership?

Engr. M. B. Shehu FNSE

Engr. Shehu: Actually, my intention is to draw a closer collaboration between the Nigerian Society of Engineers and the Executive, the Legislature, the Judiciary and the organized private sector. Of course we have been collaborating with them but the extent of collaboration is not good enough to make our impact felt and also for the society to recognize what we can do to better the country.

E-Newsletter: What role do you expect engineers to play as to take their right of place in the society because it is going to be a collective effort?

Engr. Shehu: Well you see we need to improve on our selves also. Nobody will give you anything on a platter of gold, you have to showcase yourself. People have to see the capability in you to attract them. We have to do all what it takes to be dedicated to our jobs. Once you know your job very well the opportunity will be there for you.

E-Newsletter: Thank you very much
